WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced Wednesday the itinerary for a fast-paced one-day trip that will take Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson to Wilkes-Barre and Scranton, Pa. this Saturday.

She will meet mayors of the cities, visit three retraining job centers and make a speech at the dedication of a college research center.

Flying from Washington, Mrs. Johnson is due at the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre airport at 10 a. m. Saturday. She will drive first to the Scranton Square, arriving about 10:40 a. m.

GOP Opposes JFK Center

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, in the face of almost solid Republican opposition, Wednesday night passed a bill authorizing $31 million toward building a national cultural center named in honor of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Passage came on a voice vote after Republicans failed in two efforts to strike out the $31 million of grants and loans in the bill.

British Sales Rankle Truman

LONDON (AP) — British officials forecast Wednesday that Britain's relations with the United States will emerge intact from the tempest stirred up by the $111-million British bus-for-Cuba deal.

That attitude was not wholly shared on the other side of the Atlantic. Former President Harry S. Truman, for instance, told newsmen in New York that Britain had not shown the attitude of a very good friend in connection with the sale by the Leyland Motor Corp.

"If President Johnson feels about it like I think he does," Truman said, "he'll probably take a shot at them."

Diesel Firemen Hit By Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge upheld Wednesday a ruling by a railroad arbitration panel that could eventually eliminate 90 per cent of firemen from diesel freight and yard service.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Alexander Holtzoff overruled a challenge by four operating brotherhoods affected by the decision. The unions had contended that the panel had gone beyond its authority under the law passed by Congress last summer to head off a nationwide rail strike and also that the law itself was unconstitutional.

AF To Close Spanish Base

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force will shut down one of its three bomber bases in Spain by July 1, it was announced Wednesday night.

B47 medium jet bombers will be moved from the Zaragoza base to the other two, Moron and Torrejon Zaragoza then will be placed on a standby basis.

About 3,500 military personnel and about 4,500 dependents will come home.

The action follows by a little more than a week announcement that the United States will withdraw bomber and fighter planes from Japan.

Ike Invited To Convention

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Gov. William Scranton said Wednesday night he had asked General Dwight Eisenhower to be a delegate to the Republican Presidential Convention in July but that Eisenhower declined.

Speaking at a news conference in this southwestern Pennsylvania community, Scranton said he telephoned Eisenhower Wednesday morning at the former President's vacation home in Palm Springs, Calif.

Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market Wednesday joined its voice to those of business leaders acclaiming President Johnson's State of the Union message and advanced for the sixth straight day, reaching another record peak.

The Dow Industrials rose 2.73 to 774.46.

Volume was 5.41 million shares compared with 571 million Tuesday.

Corporate bonds were higher. U. S. government bonds declined.

Johnson Cuts Budget To $97.9 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told an astonished, applauding and partly skeptical Congress Wednesday he is making an unprecedented slash in uranium production and trimming the budget to a surprising $97.9 billion.

But Johnson promised that the "full strength of our combat defenses" will be maintained and that he will launch a billion-dollar offensive against poverty in America.

The man who has been President only seven weeks set forth for the first time in this election year the plans and programs on which he intends to build the record of his administration.

Mixed Reactions
Democrats were inclined to cheer them, and Republicans were inclined to hoot.

Johnson embraced the programs of his predecessor, the assassinated John F. Kennedy. But he added some Johnson touches, such as a plan to boost the rate of pay for overtime in some industries in order to discourage overtime work and open up opportunities for more jobs.

Lady Bird Present
The diplomatic corps, the Supreme Court, the Cabinet, the nation's military commanders, sat in reserved seats on the House floor. Mrs. Johnson, in navy blue dress and mink coat, smiled on her husband from the presidential gallery. The 11-year-old daughter, Lucy Baines, 16, was at her side. Friends and relatives surrounded them.

The message ran about 2,900 words. It was interrupted an even 80 times—an average of about once every 36 words of applause. Sometimes Democrats alone provided the applause.

Reds Warned
Johnson held out in the message a friendly hand but also waved a warning finger at Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

"We intend to bury no one," Johnson said in measured tones, "and we do not intend to be buried."

Republicans and Democrats broke into thunderous applause and a yelp or two. Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin listened in stony-faced silence.

The President beckoned to the Soviet Union to go along in reducing her own production of uranium. This is a vital ingredient for nuclear missiles and nuclear submarines.

The President said the United States intends to make new proposals at Geneva later this month toward control and eventual abolition of arms.

"Even in the absence of agreement we must not stockpile arms beyond our needs or seek an excess of military power that could be provocative as well as wasteful," he said.

"It is in this spirit that in this fiscal year we are cutting back our production of enriched uranium by 25 per cent, we are shutting down four plutonium piles, and we are closing many nonessential military installations.

"And it is in this spirit that we call on our adversaries to do the same."

This proposal was applauded, too, but the volume was in the medium range.

Joint Moon Venture
Johnson also invited the Soviet Union once more to cooperate in reaching the moon, a proposal Kennedy had advanced in September with little resultant Soviet enthusiasm.

But the announcement that the budget the President is sending to Congress Jan. 21 calls for only $97.9 billion in spending for the 1965 fiscal year packed perhaps the biggest surprise.

Administration officials at one time were saying that the budget had been going up an average of $5 billion a year and that on this basis it would approach $103.5 billion for the year starting July 1. But then Johnson, first talking about getting it down to $101 or $102 billion, finally hinted he just might get it under the $100-billion mark.

The way it stands now, the $97.9 billion will be $500 million less than the spending estimated for this year under the last Kennedy budget.

Revenue Up
The administration expects revenue to go up by more than $4 billion, from $88.8 billion under the old Kennedy program to $93 billion in the coming fiscal year. This would mean, if the figures hold, that the deficit would be sliced in two, from $10 billion this year to $4.9 billion next year.

Johnson told Congress that it is "not a standstill budget, for America cannot afford to stand still."

Accompanying the budget disclosures was another bid for fast action on a bill to cut taxes $11 billion in a move the administration says will spur the economy.

In his prepared text, Johnson called for the cut by Feb. 1. But then he apparently realized this was in the nature of wishful thinking and added, in reading the passage, "if at all possible."

He threw in a line, too, that "the most damaging and devastating thing you can do to any businessman in America is to keep him in doubt about and keep him guessing about what our tax policy is."

He said his new budget clearly allows a tax cut.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, D-Va., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, managed a single handclap at that point. Byrd's committee is handling the tax cut bill, and the chairman is not among its staunchest supporters.

Democrats on the whole praised both the Johnson program and the projected dimensions of the budget.

Along with the Johnson remark about not burying anyone and not being buried, the heaviest applause crashed through the House chamber when Johnson got around to civil rights.

Backs Civil Rights
"As far as the writ of federal law will run," he said, "we must abolish not some but all racial discrimination."

He said that this is not merely an economic, social, political or international issue but a moral issue that must be met by passage this session of the strongest civil rights bill in a century.

And he stood up for a controversial requirement in the bill that public places of business must serve the public without regard to color.

Then he got a tremendous hand when he said that Americans of all races stand side by side today in Berlin and Viet Nam and died side by side in Korea.

"Surely they can work and eat and travel side by side in their own country," he added.

Johnson Declares War On Poverty

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's planned all-out drive against poverty will be a five-year campaign estimated to cost over $5 billion, administration sources said Wednesday night.

They noted that the $1-billion price tag that Johnson put on the program is merely the estimated cost for the first year.

As now contemplated, it was learned, the program would provide for federal aid to local communities under a new concept and include also an expansion of educational programs previously proposed by the Kennedy administration.

When Johnson briefed newsmen on his proposal he said, "I would suspect that the poverty program itself would run in excess of about $1 billion, but there is specifically $500 million in new obligatory authority in this budget for it."

An informed source listed these as some of the major points of the proposed program:

An expanded education program at the elementary and secondary levels, with the budget request to be about one-third greater than the $400 million estimated as the first-year cost of the stymied proposal of the late President John F. Kennedy for federal aid to education.

Provision for federal aid to communities to develop diagnostic services and medical or remedial treatment to children in the lowest income groups.

Geneva Airing

Reds Challenged To Cut Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson challenged Soviet Premier Khrushchev Wednesday to match the United States in a cutback of atomic fuel production and closing of military installations.

High-ranking U. S. officials, elaborating on Johnson's State of the Union message, said:

1. The 25 per cent slash in U. S. production of enriched uranium announced by the President stems from modernization processes in U. S. defense and will not weaken U. S. military power.

2. The United States is making the reduction on its own, without any promise from the Kremlin that Russia will do the same.

3. With both the U. S. and Soviet military outlays now apparently leveling off after rising in recent years, the United States hopes for progress in long-stalled disarmament proposals at the 17-nation disarmament conference reconvening in Geneva Jan. 21.

Meanwhile it is possible the arms race could slow down even without such formal agreements.

4. A previous U. S. proposal at Geneva still stands as part of the over-all U. S. proposal for global disarmament. It calls for a complete cutoff of production of fissionable materials for nuclear weapons, transfer of large amounts of the materials to peaceful uses, reduction of stockpiles, and a general 30 per cent reduction in arms by both sides.

Johnson said the United States will make new proposals at Geneva toward the control and eventual abolition of arms. He did not spell out the new proposals. They will be worked on here starting Thursday by representatives from the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada.

Then, declaring the United States must not over-stockpile arms or seek excess military power, he announced the 25 per cent uranium production cutback, the shutting down of four plutonium piles and the closing of many non-essential military installations.

County District Pushed

PM Board's Bid Actions Hit

STROUDSBURG — John Montgomery of Pocono Township last night told members of the Pocono Mountain Joint School Committee their past actions have undermined public confidence in the committee.

Montgomery, a committee member, said, "The low bidder should get the job every time if he is qualified and that isn't being done in this district. You have lost the confidence of the people and it is going to take a long time to regain it."

He made the remarks while arguing that a single school district would be the best thing for the county, rather than the four-district plan that seven out of the eight jointure members have formally endorsed.

"I have more confidence in the integrity of a county unit and I know it would be run much more efficiently," he said at a meeting in the junior-senior high school in Swiftwater.

Dr. Edmund Magann, president of the committee, said the four-unit plan, originally proposed by the county school board, would be the best thing for the next four or five years.

"I think a county unit will eventually come but we should stay together for as long as we can and spend our tax money on our own educational system and not on some other high school in the county," Dr. Magann said.

Magann said that he did not think the committee had lost public confidence and in fact they had done a very good job for as long as he has been a member.

In a lighter part of the meeting Montgomery ended up voting against a motion that he had initiated at the December committee meeting.

Because of a mixup in specifications a contract for the removal of five trees at the Pocono Elementary Center, Montgomery's home district, was awarded to Pocono Landscape, whose bid was $2 higher than

Rocky Cheered Then Criticized

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller drew applause from the New York Legislature Wednesday as he pressed home his no-tax-increase pledge but the program he unveiled in his "State of the State" message quickly ran into sharp criticism.

Democratic legislative leaders charged it was a "sterile, barren" program because, they said, the Republican governor had been "bitten by the bug of presidential ambition" and was distracted from state affairs.

The state AFL-CIO declared Rockefeller's message to the legislature's opening session "proposed nothing" for the working man.

As might be expected, Republicans took quite another view. GOP State Chairman Fred A. Young said Rockefeller's promise to balance his budget without raising taxes "is a feat . . .

that will not be unnoticed or unappreciated elsewhere in America."

The program sketched by the governor contained few specifics and carefully avoided the kind of major controversy that would keep him tied to his desk in Albany and restrict his activities in the GOP presidential primaries.

Barry Blasts Message

MANCHESTER, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, seeking votes as "a true Republican" candidate for the White House, accused President Johnson Wednesday of trying to "become all things to all people" in his State of the Union message.

Winding up a campaign tour that took him into five southern New Hampshire homes for coffee hours, Goldwater said at Amherst:

"It is my impression that he out-Roosevelted Roosevelt, out-Kennedied Kennedy and even made Truman look like a piker. . . ."

The Arizona senator trained his fire all day on the Democratic President. He didn't talk about New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, the only other announced candidate for the GOP nomination.

"I don't like to see a Republican primary get into a personality contest," he said.

At St. Anselm's College Wednesday night, Goldwater touched on Cuba and said that if it came to a question of doing nothing or attacking Cuba, the American people would "probably choose the latter course overwhelmingly."

He said that the late President Kennedy, in using "economic tools and bringing the anger of the organization of American states against the Cuban problem," took the correct course of action.

Goldwater said this resulted in getting Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to remove most of his equipment and troops, but only after a blockade was imposed did this nation get results.

Goldwater had his campaign car stop at a snowy roadside at Amherst to munch hamburgers and listen to the State of the Union speech.

"I can't think of a part of the United States or any people he hasn't promised something to," Goldwater told a television interviewer later.

At a crowded Amherst coffee hour he said Johnson's message should make clear why he seeks to run against the President next November.

GOP Charges Johnson Needs Fiscal Magic

WASHINGTON (AP) — Even some Democrats joined Republicans in saying it will take fiscal magic to accomplish the goals President Johnson laid out for Congress Wednesday and still stay within his proposed $97.9-billion budget.

The goals, for the most part, drew high praise from members of both parties. But several Southern Democrats made it clear they will battle the President on civil rights with every weapon at their disposal.

No Farm Talk
Some members of Congress from farm areas, such as Sens. Karl E. Mundt, R-S.D.; Jack Miller, R-Iowa, and Milton R. Young, R-N.D., expressed disappointment that Johnson had offered no solution to agricultural problems. Young said, "I hope this has no significance."

The theme running through the Democratic comment warmly praising Johnson's State of the Union message was that the President had taken the helm of leadership, laid down a firm challenge, and that it is up to Congress to meet it.

However, House Republican Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois saw it as "patently a 1964 political document," full of promises for everyone, "more of everything previously promised at less cost."

"It would take more than magic words or the skill of an experienced political magician to initiate and expand costly federal programs and at the same time reduce government expenditures," Arends said.

"It would take fiscal legerdemain," said Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

Miracle Needed
The same theme came from Democratic Sen. Allen J. Ellender of Louisiana who said that "my faith in miracles will be restored if he can accomplish all that he proposes within the budget he proposes."

It would be "a miraculous achievement," added Sen. John J. McClellan, D-Ark.

Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., called it "the biggest program in the history of our country" and said, "I hope it can be done within the budget, but I don't see how, but maybe he can do it."

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana promised wholehearted GOP cooperation in cutting the budget.

But he said "I hope the administration's new-found enthusiasm for economy in government is as great in June as it is in January."

Rep. Gerald R. Ford Jr. of Michigan, chairman of the Republican conference and a senior member of the Appropriations Committee, predicted Johnson "will get more support from the Republicans than Democrats when it comes to votes on the fiscal policy he announced."

Goldwater Blast

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, campaigning in New Hampshire for the Republican presidential nomination, listened to the broadcast of Johnson's speech and commented: "It is my impression that he out-Roosevelted Roosevelt, out-Kennedied Kennedy, and even made Truman look like a piker."

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana called the speech "a hard-hitting message without wasted verbiage" and declared: "The responsibility is now up to us, not the President." He added a "bravo" for the budget goal.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., said the message was "a progressive, positive approach to the problems facing our nation."

But Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., a leader of the anti-civil-rights forces in the Senate, declared war on that issue, saying: "Under the existing circumstances, the odds in favor of this short-sighted and disastrous legislation are very great. We can only tighten our belts with increased determination to fight the good fight for reason and the Constitution with every weapon at our disposal."

Critics Attack Tax Cut Deadline

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee went back to work on the $11-billion tax-cut bill Wednesday and tentatively approved the corporate tax reductions and new minimum standard deductions for low-income families.

But members of the committee expressed belief that President Johnson's request in his State of the Union message for final congressional action by Feb. 1, if possible, is unrealistic.

Democratic members said they are pushing for a final committee vote by the end of this month. Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware, the ranking Republican, said he doubts the bill will reach the Senate floor before March 1.

The two provisions approved by the committee were the first major ones to get clearance.

The corporate rates would be reduced from a current top of 52 per cent to 50 per cent for 1964 and then to 48 per cent in 1965 and thereafter.

It's estimated the corporate rates, when fully effective, would save U. S. businesses about $2.2 billion a year in taxes.

The minimum standard deduction feature would permit each taxpayer to take a deduction of $200 plus $100 for each exemption including himself.

Thus an individual could take $300, a man and wife $400.

The deduction under present law, if the taxpayer does not itemize deductible expenses, is limited to 10 per cent of income or $1,000, whichever is less.

Ahoy! Skipper Sees Crew But Wants Female Sailors

NEW YORK (AP) — Skipper Lee Quinn is looking for one more sailor for his next South Seas cruise. But no men need apply. He sails only with girls.

For a married man, the Los Gatos, Calif., yachtsman has found a bachelor's dream existence. And that's why he was anxious to get out of blustery New York City Wednesday and back to sunny Tahiti.

Awaiting him there is his 43-foot ketch, the Neophyte.

And his crew: There's Ava Walker from Honolulu, 5-foot-10, 23 and, in Quinn's words, "very active and very good looking."

And Maria, 20, daughter of a Tahitian pearl diver, dark and exotic with hair so long she can sit on it.

And an American brunette Quinn won't name until the Neophyte sails. "Sometimes their families object," he explained in withholding her identity.

The 11 girls he has skippered so far include a couple of blondes. "Blondes," he says, "are like throwing gasoline on the fire down in those native islands."

Quinn claims that his wife, Mary Ann, a surfing enthusiast, has no objection to his all-girl crews. In fact, he adds, she was the cause of it.

He was all set to sail the Neophyte alone across the Pacific late in 1962, he explains, when Mary Ann insisted that he take a crew.

"But she didn't say what kind of crew," he says. So he signed on four girls and headed for Honolulu.

He'd rather sail than work. And he'd rather sail with girls crewing.

State News Roundup

Scranton Wants To Meet Barry

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gov. William Scranton said Tuesday night he still plans meeting with Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater, a candidate for the Republican nomination for president.

"I want to tell him how I feel about national and local issues," the Republican governor said in a taped interview broadcast by Radio Station KDKA. "In fact, I'd like all the candidates to know how I feel."

Scranton and Goldwater had been scheduled to meet earlier, but this meeting was cancelled because of the death of President Kennedy. Scranton said the meeting will be re-scheduled.

State Highways Get New Numbers

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Highways Department announced Tuesday a series of changes in the numerical designations of Interstate roads in the Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Washington, Reading and Erie areas.

Aid Sought For Mine Disaster

HARRISBURG (AP) — The General Assembly was asked this week to appropriate $61,607 immediately "to pay the state's small share of expenses" in last summer's Shepton mine disaster.

The appropriation was requested by Gov. Scranton as he presented his $1.168 billion budget for fiscal year 1964-65 to a joint session of the legislature.

It was included in a recommendation Scranton made for $5 million in additional and deficiency appropriations for the current 1963-64 budget.

It was last Aug. 27 that David Fellin and Henry Throne were pulled to safety after being entombed since Aug. 13, 300 feet down in a coal mine cavern at Shepton.

A third trapped miner, Louis Bova, was never found.

Democrat Gets Scranton Nod

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton asked the Senate Tuesday to confirm the appointment of three members of the newly created State Highway Commission, including Roy E. Furman, a Democrat and former Lieutenant Governor.

The new Highway Commission, created by the 1963 General Assembly, is charged with the responsibility of long-range highway planning in Pennsylvania.

Named along with Furman were Louis G. Feldman of Hazleton and Harold G. Reslink of Erie, both registered Republicans.

The hearings will be held before the House and Senate Appropriations Committees in joint sessions.

Nehru Shows Improvement

BHUBANESWAR, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru has so rebounded from his latest illness there is speculation he may attend the first open meeting of the ruling Congress party's 1964 convention Thursday.

A medical bulletin said Nehru suffered a slight weakness in his left arm and leg. These show signs of improvement, it said, and, although his blood pressure is still high, his general condition is very satisfactory.

Collegians Spur Drive For Scranton

HARRISBURG (AP) — The chairman of the Pennsylvania Young Republican College Council has joined in the presidential boom for Gov. William W. Scranton.

In a confidential letter dated Jan. 2, the chairman, C. Jackson Blair of Allegheny College in Meadville, urged organization leaders across the state to "read Scranton, write Scranton, and talk Scranton."

"The letter was sent just two days before Republican State Chairman Craig Truax announced plans to advance the name of Scranton at a meeting of the GOP National Committee in Washington this week."

Gov. Scranton has been mentioned over and over again as a possible candidate for the Republican nomination in Los Angeles this year.

However, he has said repeatedly he would accept only an "honest and sincere draft."

2 Judges Take Seats On Bench

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Two new federal judges were today to take their place in U.S. District Court following swearing-in ceremonies.

John Morgan Davis, 57, was sworn in here and A. Leon Higginbotham Jr., 35, took the oath of office in Washington where he has been serving as a member of the Federal Trade Commission. Both are Philadelphia Democrats.

Davis was lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania under David Lawrence and is a former common pleas judge. Higginbotham, a former local chairman of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is the first Negro to be named to the district court here.

Both had been appointed by the late President John F. Kennedy, but the Senate never got around to confirming their appointments.

Charles Andrews Rites Conducted

MIDDLE CREEK — Funeral services for Charles M. Andrews, 74, of Stroudsburg RD 5 were held yesterday in the Timothy E.U.B. Church, Middle Creek, with the Revs. David E. Humphrey and Truman Kostenbader officiating.

Supreme Court Rules Tardy Filing All Right

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has ruled that the nomination certificate for William H. Prosser, Republican candidate for mayor of Altoona in last November's elections, was all right although it was filed with less than the required 55 days to go before the election.

In other action Tuesday, the court also upheld an award of $67,100 to G. David Thompson, a Pittsburgh art collector, for damage to nine paintings stolen from him and later recovered, and was asked to settle a dispute over heating by electricity or oil in a proposed new county home in Lebanon County.

In the Altoona case, the Supreme Court upheld a decision of the Blair County common pleas court saying that the nomination was in harmony with the objectives of the election code.

Democratic Opponents

The Democratic county committee brought the appeal, arguing that the petition was not filed within the prescribed time. Prosser was designated a substitute candidate on Sept. 17 for Roy F. Thompson, who withdrew on Sept. 27 and Robert Smay, who withdrew on Sept. 13. He filed a substitute nomination certificate on Sept. 18, 48 days before the Nov. 3 election.

The Pittsburgh art case came to the supreme court on an appeal by Insurance Co. of North America.

Insurance Settlement

After the nine paintings were stolen from Thompson, the insurance company paid him $189,000, the value specified in his policy.

At that time the insurance company "secured a release from any further liability in connection with the paintings." The release also provided that if the paintings were recovered Thompson could recover them upon repayment of the $189,000 less "the amount of such depreciation and/or the cost of restoration" of the paintings.

The paintings eventually were recovered and Thompson and the insurance company disagreed on the amount of the $189,000 he should return.

In the Lebanon County case, two taxpayers, Martin N. Shuey and Howard O. Stouffer filed suit contending that heating the proposed county home with electricity would be more expensive than heating with oil.

Seek To Stop Contract

They asked the Lebanon County Court of Common Pleas to enjoin the county commissioners from awarding a contract for use of electricity. They said it was the duty of the county court to see that the commissioners acted in the interests of economy and efficiency.

The case reached the State Supreme Court on a writ of certiorari, which is a calling up of the records from a lower court. Shuey and Stouffer, also acting as representatives of the Property Owners Association of Lebanon County, contended the decision to use electricity to heat the county home was based on erroneous information.

The county asked the Supreme Court to hear the arguments because of urgency. The county said the lowest bid for the job will expire before the lower court could decide the issue. The expiration date is Jan. 16. The county said the lowest bid is $75,000 below the architect's estimates.

The county commissioners, Henry H. Mark, Herbert W. Markov, and D. Dewey Shank, said the plaintiffs' complaint does not set forth a cause of ac-

People In The Spotlight

Daniel Garcia was caught clowning in his classroom 36 years ago. So the teacher called him to the desk and Garcia got spanked.

His former teacher called him to his desk again this week. And Garcia is going. Only this time he's enthused about seeing his teacher. His teacher? President Lyndon B. Johnson. The president invited his former pupil to Washington after Garcia appeared on a television show.

Rep. Howard H. Baker (Rep.-Tenn.) the second ranking GOP member of the House Ways and Means Committee died on Tuesday.

Washington sees his death as a setback to some of the administration's proposed programs. Though Baker sided with the GOP conservatives, he did vote for most Democratic-inspired social security measures.

Pope Paul VI, despite his grueling three-day pilgrimage to the Holy Land, has thrown himself right back into his work. Aside from catching up on affairs left pending during his trip, he is reportedly working on his first encyclical letters.

Elizabeth Taylor will file for divorce against Eddie Fisher—with or without his consent—some time this week.

Fisher who has cooperated with his wife before has not given his consent to the divorce. Insiders think that no financial settlement has been reached.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara apparently is receiving money that he doesn't want. Teachers in U. S. schools overseas, angry because of the $100 a year pay increase they received, are sending some of the money to McNamara in dribbles. Some of the teachers send the Defense Secretary $2 a week out of their pay checks.

Mrs. Catherine Helen Crosby, 90, mother of singer Bing Crosby, died this week in a Santa Monica rest home after suffering a series of strokes.

The Crosby family always referred to their mother affectionately as "The Boss."

U. N. Secretary-General U Thant said this week that a relapse in the cold war may lead the world "from crisis to crisis, until we find that we are pretty close to war."

Senate Sets Sights On J.P. Fee Policy

HARRISBURG (AP) — Four constitutional amendments were proposed in the Senate as the state legislature opened its 148th regular session.

Sens. John H. Ware, R-Chesler, and Clarence D. Bell, R-Delaware, also called for a thorough study of constitutional revision by the Joint State Government Commission, research arm of the legislature.

Three of the proposed amendments were introduced by Sen. Robert D. Fleming, R-Allegheny but without administration sponsorship.

Fleming's recommendations

tion. They asked for it to be dismissed.

Dist. Atty. Paul Rhodes said if the case is not quickly settled the county will lose the bids which it thinks are favorable.

The Supreme Court took the matter under advisement.

448 Pints Of Blood Donated

TOBYHANNA — Four hundred and twenty-eight pints of blood were collected at the Tobyhanna Army Depot in a two-day drive that ended yesterday. Thirty-five additional volunteers were deferred for various reasons.

This week's collection boosted blood contributions by soldiers and civilians at the huge Army post to 8,333 pints. The Red Cross Bloodmobile began semi-annual visits to the depot in 1954.

The first 14 pints donated Tuesday were delivered to the Geisinger Memorial Hospital in Danville, where they were used in open heart surgery on a five-year-old area girl. The Regional Blood Center in Wilkes-Barre reported Wednesday that the operation was a success.

Jack Mullins, assistant Monroe County blood drive chairman, transported the 14 pints to the hospital.

While Wednesday's collection was in progress, five donors from the post were at the Hahnemann Hospital in Scranton, giving direct transfusion to the seriously ill relative of a depot employee.

Exceeds Quota
The 428-pint collection exceeded the depot's self-set quota of 400 pints.

Co-chairmen of the drive were Clyde Burke, Stroudsburg, and Elwood Conley, Mountainhome.

S-burg RD Man Gets Caught In 1-Day Ecuador Uprising

STROUDSBURG — Recently returned from Ecuador, where he was caught in a one-day revolution is Tobyhanna Army Depot employee Arthur Cox of RD 2, Stroudsburg. Along with another depot technician, Ben Szerszen of West Hazleton, he left last March to instruct members of the Ecuador Army in the operations and maintenance of U. S. equipment.

The revolution took place on July 11. When the uprising began, Szerszen was near the presidential palace, where two students from his school were shot to death. Cox, a few blocks away, was trapped in a cross-fire of bullets, but managed to scramble to safety.

"When we took this assignment," Cox says, "we didn't know we were going to experience anything like that."

South America, they thought, would be very peaceful, with time out for afternoon siestas. "They have siestas down there all right," Szerszen says, "but we never could get the habit."

Both men used the two-hour lunch breaks to explore surrounding areas. They were stationed in Quito, the capital, which has a population of some 400,000 and is about 9,000 feet above sea level.

"Some foreigners can't adjust to the altitude," Cox says. "Some have nosebleeds and dizziness."

Births Rise In Monroe

HARRISBURG — Monroe County births in the first nine months of last year were on the upswing as compared with the same period in 1962, the State Department of Health said yesterday.

A report just completed by the department shows the number of births in Monroe County in the first nine months of 1962 totaled 556 as compared with 576 births in the county last year at the same time.

The latest birth rate for the county stands at 19.1 per 1,000 population — up from a rate of 17.9 a year earlier.

Deaths climbed from 329 during the period in 1962 to 350 for the past year bringing the present death rate for the county up to 11.6 per 1,000 population.

Leading cause of death in the county for the period was heart disease which took the lives of 122 Monroe County residents (119 during the preceding year). Other causes of death in the

Tocks For Told Quote Not Official

PHILADELPHIA — Mrs. Nancy Shukaitis, whose home is situated in the proposed Tocks Island project, asked a public hearing in Philadelphia if Tocks Island residents should have no reservations about land speculation.

She told the Delaware River Basin Commission that an article appeared in The Daily Record that quoted an official related to the project as saying Tocks Island residents should have no reservations about land speculation.

The commission told her that they know of no official having any connection with Tocks Island making such a statement.

Robert S. Van Fleet, chief of the Ottaway News Service, in a five-part article published in The Daily Record said, land development in the proposed recreational part of the project will be a boon to the area economy.

While saying that building the dam appears fairly certain, he said, at this time, the development of the recreation area is uncertain.

At the hearing held Tuesday Mrs. Shukaitis said:

"We feel that the Delaware River Basin Commission demonstrates misplaced priority when it endorses construction of large dams on the main stem of the Delaware and interstate river."

"Severe Water Shortage"

"You promise water from this project to the ocean-bordering cities of Philadelphia, New York and Wilmington, at a time when every branch of government, most municipalities and all here present are aware that the entire inland population has come face to face with a severe water shortage."

"This includes the Borough of East Stroudsburg, Portland, Delaware Water Gap, Bangor and hundreds of other Pennsylvania communities."

"The House Science and Astronautics Committee warned three years ago that the United States would probably face a critical water shortage by 1970."

"I ask, why were not the 25 small multi-dam projects constructed first in order to assure maximum upstream flood control and water supply in our Pocono Mountain area?"

STROUDSBURG — Eastern Pennsylvania Heart Association is now located at its new office on the first floor of the Monroe County Jail.

Mrs. Dorothy M. Oliver, executive director, yesterday said office hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

She added, "We have been looking for a long time for an office on or near street level and recently the Monroe County commissioners told us we could have the former sheriff's office here on the first floor of the jail."

"All, or most all, of our information and help is to persons with heart ailments and are unable to climb steps. Being here is a great help to people seeking information from us. We have the commissioners to thank for this," she concluded.

Budget Surprise

President Johnson proved yesterday that he may be even more clever at public relations than John Kennedy, a master in the art, ever was.

After weeks of bluffing, puffing, slashing, cutting and 18-hour days working on the budget, President Johnson announced in his State of the Union message to Congress and the nation that he had cut the budget back to $97.9 billion for fiscal 1965, and would cut the deficit in half.

It was a surprise after weeks of statements by the President and his advisors, first that the budget might have to go up from the present $98 to $103, then that his goal was a $100 billion budget.

President Johnson obviously worked hard to cut the budget as much as he proposes, and he should be congratulated for that.

But he worked just as hard in the subtle art of preparing the country for the pleasant surprise he pulled out of his hat yesterday. It was a masterful piece of public relations, perhaps a little dishonest, but good news nevertheless when the full story was told.

Now the Presidents' job is to make it stick. If his detailed budget, which will be presented to Congress soon in a formal budget message, substantiates the reduction, and if the President can restrict current spending, he will have won a major political and psychological victory in a presidential election year.

Republicans and some Democrats said yesterday it would require some magic power to live within this budget and pay for all the programs Johnson asked for.

If he succeeds, he will be able to claim that he turned the tide of ever-increasing federal spending without economic disaster.

He will take a good deal of the fiscal integrity wind out of the sails of Republican presidential candidates Goldwater, Rockefeller and Scranton.

He will prove that he meant business when he promised in his first address to Congress that he would get a dollar's value for every dollar spent and would bring "frugality" to federal government.

We hope he can make good his promise. We hope it is more than a public relations campaign for the coming election.

Poverty And Spending

President Johnson's billion dollar "poverty package" should not be tossed off as pure politics, although it is certainly good politics in an election year.

Statistics show that while the average American family income is $5,700, 23 per cent of the nation's families and unrelated individuals receive less than $2,000 a year.

It has been said again and again that while the nation is enjoying one of its longest recent economic booms, it is also suffering from unemployment and poverty both in depressed areas and in supposedly prosperous areas.

The skeptics, and we have been among them, have said that the President cannot talk about cutting the budget and adding major new programs in the same breath. That is a fiscal fact.

But if he can cut out waste and reduce unnecessary programs, military bases and weapons, and transfer funds to areas of human need, he may be able to keep two promises—to cut waste and spending and to increase aid to the unemployed, the untrained, the retarded, the uneducated, and the poor.

It should be noted that President Johnson cut $1 billion from the military budget and now proposes to spend $1 billion in a "war on poverty." If that war can be fought effectively, some of the savings in military budget reductions should be diverted to human needs in America.

We do not have to go abroad to find grinding poverty. It exists here at home, under our noses, next door and down the street in many American communities.

The danger in increasing expenditures for food distribution, unemployment payments, and other welfare programs is that the aided may become dependent upon the handout, finding it a lot easier than helping themselves.

Emphasis should instead be put on programs for the underprivileged which train them, educate them and give them the opportunities and skills needed to rise into the mainstream of self-sufficient American life.

Helping people to help themselves is a lot more difficult than spending money on nuclear bombs and weapons, building highways or airports, dams or bridges. It requires sympathy, understanding and skill.

But it is more important and must be done if freedom in America is to include the pursuit of happiness.

Comment Of The Day

"Tannersville is now a suburb of Camelback, Incorporated."
—Walter H. Sebring of Tannersville.

Walter Lippmann

Goldwater Challenge

By Walter Lippmann

The difference with which Senator Goldwater announced that he would run revealed how little he enjoys what is ahead of him.

He is forced to go through a grueling series of primary campaigns in which his main objective is not to defeat Lyndon Johnson and become President of the United States, but to capture control of the machinery of the Republican Party.

Although he often says that he does not wish to fight Republicans, he is in fact engaged in what promises to be a fierce struggle with Republicans.

In order to dominate the Republican convention, he is taking the line that the rival Republican candidates, beginning but not ending with Governor Rockefeller, are not Republicans at all, but Democrats.

He won't debate with them. He dismisses them as outsiders. The established Republican leadership, which is now grouped around General Eisenhower, is to be ousted and purged, and the Goldwater faction, which is a minority within a minority party, are to be invested as the only true Republicans.

The audacity of this claim will become increasingly evident as the primary campaign unfolds. In his press conference at Phoenix, for example, he put General Eisenhower aside with a sneering reference to the fact that this man, the only Republican elected to the Presidency for a generation, has been traveling in a private railroad car.

Mr. Rockefeller, the only

Republican elected governor of New York since Thomas Dewey, is dismissed as a mere Democrat. Thus, Senator Goldwater is trapped in a commitment to argue that he alone is a true Republican and that he alone is qualified to speak for the party.

There is every prospect, therefore, that in the Republican primaries the issues which divide the party will become sharper as time goes on. It was plain enough in the senator's appearance on Sunday on "Meet the Press" that he is cast in a role which he does not altogether relish. Far from insisting on purging the other Republicans, he knows quite well that he is left with extreme factions which are political liabilities.

His normal political instinct is to fudge these issues in order to allow his less extreme supporters to say that he never really meant them. But it will be remarkable if the Republicans, whose political lives are mortally challenged, and the Democrats, who are not careless in these matters, allow Senator Goldwater to wear out his way out of the absurdities he has uttered—on the income tax, on relations with Russia, Social Security, the Tennessee Valley and the racial question. If he tries to retreat to a more moderate position, he will mar his one greatest political asset—the image of himself as a non-nonsense, put-up-or-shut-up, rough-talking, no-nonsense man.

He made one attempt on "Meet the Press" to extort from the position that we should withdraw recognition from the Soviet Union.

First he explained that he wanted to use the threat of non-recognition as a bargaining tool, and then in a wild attempt to get back off the limb onto which he had crawled, he made the extraordinary and altogether untrue statement that if he were President, he alone could not withdraw recognition. "We have to keep in mind, though," Goldwater said, "that the Senate of the United States." This remark shows how little he understands the Constitutional powers of the office for which he is now an avowed candidate.

The essential Goldwater theme is the claim that he speaks the true and fundamental principles of the party of Washington and Hamilton, of Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt and of Eisenhower. To anyone brought up in a Republican tradition, this is a preposterous claim.

Senator Goldwater would transform the party of Hamilton into an Anti-Federal Party. He would transform the party of Lincoln into the party of white supremacists. He would transform the party of Theodore Roosevelt into an Anti-Progressive Party of uneducated and unregulated businessmen, each man for himself and the devil take the hindmost.

Fasten All Seat Belts

The Pennsylvania Story

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — The current legislative session and the special session he is expected to call later on unemployment compensation revision unquestionably place Governor Scranton squarely on the line insofar as his presidential possibilities are concerned.

It may seem odd that a single-subject session such as the regular 1964 budget-only session could be so important from a national political standpoint — yet it is generally conceded around Capitol Hill that "this is it" if Mr. Scranton is to be seriously considered (against his wishes, of course) when Republican chiefs gather in San Francisco this summer to name their big one.

Why would this single-subject (budget affairs only) legislative session, and strictly a Pennsylvania subject at that, be viewed with such importance outside the Keystone State?

The answer lies basically in the fact that it is something "contemporary" or "timely" in nature. In the political arena, accomplishments are short-lived insofar as voter memory is concerned.

Political strategists well recognize this axiom, that what happened last year fades this year. Mr. Scranton's peg therefore lies secondarily on what he accomplished last year—but primarily on what he can (or cannot) accomplish this year.

In fact in somewhat unusual candor for a political old pro, GOP State Chairman Craig Truax admitted this very point this week when he headed for Washington where today he is meeting with GOP state chairmen from throughout the nation to kick around (among other things) presidential possibilities, he said:

"What Pennsylvania Republicans accomplish in the months ahead will have a profound political effect outside the Commonwealth."

Mr. Truax was not referring to the question of whether canals should be used in California's Mojave Desert. The point to be made is that "how well" Mr. Scranton accomplishes his administration legislative chores will in reality be the telling point.

We use the word "chores" — plural — because while at the moment attention is indeed focused on the current fiscal affairs session, still another special session is expected to be called on the thorny subject of revision of Pennsylvania's jobless pay laws.

This always controversial subject was supposed to have been taken up during the past regular 1963 legislative session but literally died aborning when the administration's House Bill 1697 was duly introduced — and where it all ended. It wound up on the score-board "for further study."

But this was one of — Mr. Scranton's prime legislative issues — so prime in fact that he sent over a special 21-page message to the House and Senate spelling out his thoughts on UC and urging passage of the legislation.

That was on July 11 of last year when Mr. Scranton at the time declared that "Pennsylvania's unemployment compensation program needs immediate attention . . ."

Girl, 15, Wrote Poem

Talk about a column creating interest. Last Saturday's missive on the "Letter From Heaven" poem from a previously unknown — to this corner anyway — stirred up phone calls and letters galore from readers in Monroe, Pike, Northampton and Wayne counties.

To set the record straight, the poem was written by a 15-year-old Yonkers, N.Y. girl by the name of Barbara Jones. She is a sophomore in Sacred Heart High School and is the daughter of Patricia L. Edwards Jones.

Barbara also wants the world to know the reason why she penned the poem. She says, "People want to be rewarded for this isn't the end. President Kennedy is being rewarded for the good he did here."

Titled, "Special delivery From Heaven," the poem memorialized the dead President by imagining what he would now write his family if he could break through the silence

From its first assignment in Sacred Heart's classroom, the poem grew so much in stature that it is now a symbol across the nation. We also have heard that it has been printed in foreign languages in distant countries.

Getting back to the local furor it stimulated, this writer is especially indebted to Mrs. Charles Albert of Mount Airy, N.C.; Andrew Roberts, of Mt. Bethel; Mrs. Anna Bush and countless others who phoned and wrote notes identifying the writer of the poem.

This column's one philosophy is, and always will be, "your concern is our concern."

The Allen-Scott Report

Oswald Inquiry

WASHINGTON — The intensive questioning of Mrs. Lee Harvey Oswald by the FBI and Secret Service has shed revealing light on some important facets of the many mysteries still surrounding her and her husband.

In the detailed reports submitted to the special commission headed by Chief Justice Warren, the government investigators make very clear that: One — The 22-year-old Russian widow of the assassin is a thoroughly self-possessed, cool, calm and poised person, who is in full control of herself at all times. She has a complete grasp of what has happened, and what is taking place regarding her.

Two — Mrs. Oswald has an excellent IQ, and is quite well educated, with eleven years of formal schooling, including three years of pharmaceutical training. This is equivalent to a better than high school education in the U.S., and means she was rated well by Russian standards, as only talented youths, especially women, are given more than elementary schooling. She was a laboratory assistant when she met Oswald.

Three — While cooperating readily with the investigators on everything relating to herself and Oswald in this country, she has been reluctant and evasive in answering questions about their life in Russia and events leading up to her return to the U.S., after apparently disavowing a written defection to the Soviet.

Four — Still to be learned from Mrs. Oswald are exactly how and when she met her husband, whether she reported their meetings to Russian authorities, as Soviet citizens are required when having relations with foreigners, and what dealings and contacts Oswald had with Russians and officials during his three years there.

On all these highly pertinent background points, Mrs. Oswald has been markedly "vague" and "fuzzy."

In discussing their life in the U.S., she is specific and positive about dates, individuals and events. But when interrogated about what transpired in Russia, her attitude and responses are decidedly different.

She never loses her temper or composure. But she also never reveals any more than she wants to.

More Rife Tests — To get at the bottom of these significant matters, is the reason the special commission is bringing Mrs. Oswald to Washington late this month for direct grilling — behind closed doors. The full commission will participate in this questioning.

Eventually her testimony will be published, but not until the commission's inquiry is completed.

The commission also wants information about the alleged murder rifle.

The FBI has been asked to conduct further tests on the rifle, required to fire three shots. Reason for this is new evidence that the second and third shots came in exceptionally rapid succession.

It was the third shot that shattered the back of the President's head, and fragmented. This has made very difficult determining whether that round was fired by the same rifle.

The Italian manufacturer of the rifle has been asked to submit certain information by the commission.

It also plans to send its own investigator to Mexico for a first-hand study of Oswald's mysterious trip there last September. At one session of the commission, J. Lee Rankin, general counsel, noted that the FBI learned from Mrs. Oswald that her husband left for Mexico on September 26, the day the White House announced Kennedy would go to Texas.

From Mexican authorities, the FBI has ascertained that Oswald arrived in Mexico City on September 27, took a room in a cheap hotel, and went immediately to the Cuban consulate where he sought a visa to Cuba for the avowed purpose of going from there to Russia.

According to the Mexicans, the Cuban consulate sent Oswald to the Soviet embassy. Still unknown is whether he actually went there and, if he did, what happened.

Strongly suspected by U.S. investigators is that Oswald was carefully preparing an escape route.

The special commission is also seeking from the State Department its Security Office's file on the killer. A record was compiled on him after he notified the Moscow embassy of intention to defect to the Soviet.

Carrying Things Too Far!

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a mail carrier and some of the stories he tells me about the women he sees on his route would curl your hair. He says some of them answer the door in their bathrobes at two o'clock in the afternoon! And he has seen some appear in thin, see-through nylon dresses. Anyway, he says he sure wishes they would cover up as they are disgraceful! I was taught to dress up in the morning, with undergarments, hosiery, shoes and a fresh house dress. And, believe me, I wasn't trying to tempt the mail carrier, either. Please print this so the glib ones will see it and take the hint.

MAIL CARRIER'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: I doubt if the average housewife has any intention of carrying away the mail carrier. It's her MAIL, she's interested in—not your MALE.

DEAR ABBY: Is it proper to thank people at the grave for having come to a funeral? My little niece passed away last week. She was only two years old. The funeral was small in attendance, but very lovely. When we were all leaving the cemetery, the child's grandmother went around to all the people she knew and said, "Thank you for coming." This is the first time I have ever heard of THANKING people for attending a funeral. Wasn't she out of order?

Speaking Of Your Health:

Understanding Suicide

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D. — The unnecessary destruction of one single productive human being by a preventable disease, by murder, or by self-annihilation is a deplorable loss.

Suicides in the United States have attained the unprecedented peak of 20,000 reported deaths in one year. These figures are sufficiently alarming to induce physicians, psychiatrists and social scientists to combine their energies in an effort to prevent such mass self-destruction.

Why does someone decide to take his own life? Are there early signs by which the potential suicide can be recognized? Can his life be redirected and rehabilitated? Who should assume this responsibility?

Definite Treatise
The answers to these vital questions were clearly stated in a definitive treatise on the causes, the prevention and the social implications of suicide. Dr. Paul Friedman, physician and psychiatrist of New York City, is the author of this important work.

In it, Dr. Friedman highlights some of the statistical aspects of suicide which shed significant light on this menace to health and life. The current rate of suicide per 100,000 population in the United States is about the same as it was 50 years ago. The increase in population accounts for the increase in actual numbers of suicides.

Japan's The Highest
For many strange cultural and social reasons, the frequency of suicide in the United States is about half the rate of that in Switzerland, Austria, Denmark or Finland. Japan has the highest incidence; Mexico the lowest. Social psychologists have speculated on but have never adequately explained these figures.

Dr. Friedman states that although women make more attempts at suicide than men, successful suicide is greater among men. A point of interest is the fact that the higher the intellectual level, the greater the frequency of self-destruction.

The precipitating factors for the impulse to suicide may be ill health, incurable disease, loneliness, unrequited love, loss of wealth or status, and the humiliation of an unacceptable social situation.

It is interesting to note that the possession or presence of a weapon or drugs is unquestionably an important factor in the contemplation of suicide.

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

To Play Possum
American hunters long ago noticed one particular characteristic of the animal — of the possum, as the animal is commonly called. The possum appears to feign death when it is struck or is severely startled.

The possum falls over, its eyes closed, its muscles limp and its tongue hanging out of its half-opened mouth. While it is in this state, no amount of prodding will make the animal show any sign of life.

After the danger has passed, the possum rolls over, gets to its feet and goes on its way. Contrary to popular opinion, the possum's action is an involuntary nervous reaction, rather than willful deception.

This trait of the animal led to the figurative expression, "to play possum" — which means to feign sleep, illness, ignorance or the like.

Subscribers Lean Toward Phone Toll Charge Drop

DALLAS — More than half of the subscribers in the Saylorburg exchange of Commonwealth Telephone Co. have voted in favor of dropping the toll charge between the exchange and Stroudsburg and adding 25 cents to the monthly residential rate.

William Umphred, general

Holy Name Breakfast Sunday

EAST STROUDSBURG—The Holy Name Society of St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Church in East Stroudsburg will hold its 25th annual communion breakfast Sunday in the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Stroudsburg.

The breakfast will take place following an 8 a.m. mass in St. Luke's Church in Stroudsburg, according to Albert Zatecky, chairman of the ticket committee.

The featured speaker on the program will be Edward J. Carlson of Glen Cove, N. Y. Carlson is the president of Local 470, International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers, AFL-CIO.

He is a member of the Long Island Fund Board for the Mentally and Physically Handicapped Committee and commissioner of the Glen Cove Industrial Board.

He has been a leader in the fight to oust Communists from American labor unions since 1943.

Newly elected officers of the society are George M. Rung, president; Dr. John Kulba, John Gargone and Robert Riedmiller, all vice presidents; Chester Mertens, secretary; Zatecky, treasurer; E. B. Chura, financial secretary, and Charles Nichols, marshal.

Father John Esseff is the society's moderator. John W. Smith is breakfast chairman.

commercial manager of the company, said yesterday, "During the first three days of the receipt of cards, which ended today, our office has received 596 cards. The people sending in the cards have voted 516 in favor of the proposed plan and 50 against it.

"This amounts to about 52 per cent of the customers served by the Saylorburg exchange. There are 1,043 customers in the exchange," he concluded.

Urges Favorable Vote
M. F. Weiss Sr., a member of the West End Lions Club committee working in cooperation with the telephone company, last night said, "It is the feeling of every member of the committee that people should vote in favor of the change."

"There is a possibility that many of the area do not understand what is trying to be accomplished by the telephone company and the Lions Club. For many years people in the West End of Monroe County have felt they have not been a part of the county and it is believed that the telephone is one of the reasons for the invisible barrier."

He added, "Now the chance to knock this barrier down is at hand. Here is the story in a nutshell. Many of us out here (in Brodheadsville) make many calls to Stroudsburg. Each one of them costs us 18 cents. If we vote in favor of the increase in the monthly rate there will be no toll charge for Stroudsburg calls.

"In other words if I make two calls it will cost me 36 cents under the present system. If the toll rate is done away with and a slight monthly increase for telephone service is installed I will be able to make 36 calls and none of them will be a toll charge."

Weiss concluded, "Even if a party makes only two calls under the present setup it would cost them 36 cents in toll charges, not counting tax, the same party will have money in his pocket under the proposed change as he will pay an average of 25 cents per month and can make 36 calls. Again I point out under the new plan these 36 calls would all be toll free."

Weiss asked all customers in the exchange to send their card "just as soon as possible," to the phone company.

$2,407,911 Budget For ESSC

HARRISBURG—Included in Gov. Scranton's proposed appropriations for state colleges during the fiscal year of 1964-65 was $2,407,911 for East Stroudsburg State College.

Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College, said last night, "I have nothing official on this, but I believe it is the operating budget for the college."

He continued, "If this is the budget your story out of Harrisburg fails to show that a portion of that money comes from student fees received here at the college."

"The college submits an estimate of fees it will receive from students and sends that to Harrisburg along with the operating budget. The state, when making the appropriation, adds to the expected amount of fees we submit to bring the total up to the proposed operating budget."

Police said VanLurender was traveling south on Kane St. when a coal truck operated by Singer backed into the street from Peoples Coal Co. and rammed into the car.

Police said damage to the truck and car is heavy.

Police also reported an accident which occurred Tuesday at 2:10 p.m. in front of 541 N. Fifth St., Stroudsburg.

Leo Dailey, 31, of 1116 Dreher Ave., Stroudsburg, was driving a Yellow Taxi Cab north on N. Fifth St. and was attempting a left turn into a parking lot at 541 N. Fifth St., to discharge a passenger.

John K. Miller Jr., 20, of 302 Lackawanna Ave., East Stroudsburg, operating a truck owned by Citizens Gas Co., collided with the taxi.

Mrs. Grace Wilmarth, 59, a passenger in the cab was examined by a local doctor and released, police said.

'Income Beyond Expectations'

Camelback Ski Venture Seen Big Success

By Jim Ottaway Jr.,
Daily Record Editor

TANNERSVILLE — Camelback Ski Corp. officials are amazed at the sudden success of their new ski area at Big Pocono Mountain.

"Everybody is surprised, even the optimists in the company," said Walter Foeger, Austrian ski expert who designed and supervised construction of the nine ski trails as managing director of Camelback-in-the-Poconos.

"Income is beyond expectation and better than our most optimistic predictions," he added.

Ken Nicoll, resident manager in charge of operations when Foeger is at Jay Peak, Vt., which he also manages, reported that Camelback's business has been phenomenal.

Huge Success

"The crowds have been way above our expectation," Nicoll said. "Our opening was a huge success. People are aware of the area and are coming from far and near."

Nicoll said about 40 per cent of the skiers are from New Jersey, 40 percent from Pennsylvania and the rest from New York, Washington, D.C., Baltimore, and other East Coast areas.

"We have even had inquiries from California and Colorado," Nicoll said.

Ski School Zooms

Foeger's Natur-Teknik Ski School with seven full time instructors has drawn about 100 students a day since the new ski area opened Dec. 14.

"I hadn't expected so much," Foeger said.

Big Crowds

The biggest crowd to date came Sunday, Dec. 29, between Christmas and New Year's Day, when 1,550 people bought parking tickets (one for everyone in the car).

Weekday crowds have been running between 200 and 400. Last weekend, about 1,200 crowded the slopes of Big Pocono.

Good Safety Record

Both Foeger and Nicoll said there had been remarkably few accidents and injuries at Camelback.

"The ski patrol is amazed that there are not more accidents," Foeger said. "The national average is six accidents per 1,000 skiers and we are under that consistently."

To prove the point, Nicoll cited accident report figures for Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 4 and 5. There were just five accidents on both days when there were about 1,200 skiers, Nicoll said.

And most of the injuries were minor.

The Saturday report shows one possible sprain to a right knee, one sprained left wrist, a possible fractured left fibula, a cut on the right thumb, and a bruised left hand, according to Nicoll.

He said Sunday accidents included a cut face, a possible fractured right wrist, a sprained ankle, a possible fractured left thumb, and a cut leg.

Unwelcome Business

But not everyone is happy about Camelback's success. It has added to the already growing number of winter sports injuries treated by the General Hospital of Monroe County in East Stroudsburg.

Harry Smith, hospital superintendent, noted an increase in winter sports injuries all over the county, not just at Camelback.

"It gives us more business which we're not anxious to have, but it's not a major problem," Smith said.

Future Is Bright

Foeger said Camelback is so close to traffic and population centers that it is already offering serious competition to areas in southern Vermont and lower New England.

"There is no doubt that this is the place to ski in the future," Foeger predicted enthusiastically.

But he said it will not hurt skiing elsewhere, but actually introduce many new skiers to the sport and help skiing in the Poconos and the East in general.

"Potential ski enthusiasts from the metropolitan areas can easily come here to learn how to ski," Foeger said. "We are creating new skiers."

The first month of operation has been without its headaches.

It took ten days to get the 2,900-foot double chair lift to the top of the mountain in working order and the crew has had to learn slowly how to make snow with the 20,000 feet of pipe running up the mountain with water and compressed air.

There have been some lucky natural snow falls, but bad ski weather too — freezing, windy days, sleet and rain.

But the crowds still come, proving that Camelback, as just about everyone predicted, will be here to stay.

Statement Made By Hutchinson

STROUDSBURG — A statement made by David Hutchinson, vice president of the Monroe County School Board, at a convention of county school directors in the courthouse Tuesday night was incorrectly attributed to John Litts, county superintendent of schools.

During a discussion of why Eldred Township is reluctant to join any county school district Hutchinson said, "This involves Eldred because you are in the county and if we come up with a plan (for school reorganization) you are in it whether or not you like it."

At the meeting Litts said that each school district in the county should write to the secretary of the county board on or before Feb. 5 with their opinions on county school reorganization.

The company has operated since that time at temporary facilities at 219 N. Ninth St., Stroudsburg.

Souvenir gifts and balloons for the children and refreshments will be included in the open house festivities.

During the three days the company will display its 1964 models of Volkswagen sedans, convertibles, station wagons, trucks and Karmann Ghia coupes and convertibles. The Ghia is Volkswagen's sports model.

Special Guests
Special guests participating in the ribbon-cutting ceremony at 11 a.m., Thursday will be: William J. Magarity, vice president and general manager of Auto Associates; James Welsh, district sales manager of Volkswagen of America; Miss Sally Wiss, daughter of the owner, will cut the ribbon.

Also on the program are John Baynor, vice president of Monroe Security Bank and Trust Co., Stroudsburg; Robert Davenport, another Monroe Security vice president; Henry G. Tucker, president of Monroe County Automobile Dealers Association.

Sportsmen Drive To Halt Deer Kill On Highways

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs is mounting a drive to have Interstate Rt. 80, between Stroudsburg and Tannersville, fenced off to save the lives of deer killed by cars in that area.

John Doebling, county game protector, told representatives of the 14 member clubs that 83 deer have been killed on Rt. 80 since it was opened in September.

At the meeting in the courthouse, the club discussed plans to hold a meeting with the Pennsylvania Game Commission on the problem of car-slaughtered deer on the new highway.

James Price of Tannersville, federation president, said the club will also seek the aid of the American Automobile Assn. because of the menace deer create for drivers on 60-mile-per-hour road.

To Survey Clubs
After a lengthy discussion on proposed federal legislation to tighten the Federal Firearms Act, it was decided to take the question to the individual clubs.

It was indicated that the federation would go along with the National Rifle Association's recommendations concerning the issue. Representatives were asked to report at the February meeting on the official stand the individual clubs will take on firearms legislation.

The club passed a resolution calling for a halt to the indiscriminate killing of deer illegally.

Doebling told the meeting that he is having a serious problem with dogs chasing and killing deer. He said any person has the right to kill a dog if that dog is endangering the life of any animal.

He cautioned, however, anyone killing a licensed dog in these circumstances must report the incident to a game protector.

New Officers
New federation officers elected to serve during 1964 were:

James Price of the Pocono Paradise Gun Club, president (re-elected); John Michael, Dutch Hill Gun Club, first vice president; James Braids, second vice president.

Also William Rae, West End Rod and Gun Club secretary and delegate to the Northeastern and Pennsylvania Federations, and Martin Motts, treasurer.

The club donated $15 to the Good Outdoor Manners Education Project. John E. Withrow, county agent is chairman of the project.

American Designers Display Creative Imagination For Spring

By Bobby Westbrook

Daily Record Family Fare Editor

New York — Meanwhile, back at the ranchhouse — Actually it's down at Delmonico's where the American Designers Series is occurring simultaneously, and the fashion press is trying on schizophrenia for size.

For the first time, two fashion groups are showing at the same time. Both disclaim any rivalry and the fashion press, trying to be in two places at once to skim the cream of the fashion news for their readers, is too out of breath racing back and forth to put up an argument.

No Argument

No one would argue on fashion matters with the coordinator of the American Designer Series, Eleanor Lambert, when she makes her fashion forecast, not only for Spring and Summer 1964, but, fearlessly, for Winter, 1965. The purpose of covering high fashion designers is not only for the few readers who may buy their custom fashions but also for all women who wear clothes—and that's all of us—to give them the rising trends so that whatever price they may pay for their clothes, these clothes will stay in style longer. That's why Eleanor Lambert's fashion predictions are so helpful.

Trends which are sometimes merely hinted at in the current showings but which she regards as prophetic are:

Prophecy

Experimentation with cross seaming to balance widening shoulders; moving into the body silhouette which by next year will mean really molded bodices; the fuller skirts, now in gentle fullness through gathers or pleats, to bloom into fullness.

Watch for, says Miss Lambert, the impact of the filmed version of "My Fair Lady" when it is released about next Christmas, with its styles borrowed from about 1913.

You won't have to wait that long to see the 1961 Fashion trends.

That plunging neckline, for instance, for which Miss Lambert adds a word of warning. "I hope that women who shouldn't wear plunging necklines don't rush out and buy them. If a woman can wear them I hope she doesn't clutter them up with necklaces. Long dangling earrings are enough."

There is plenty of fashion news in the American Designer series quite apart from the plunging necklines. The changes, while not radical, are basic.

Basic Changes

There is a neat trim look: the longer jacket, the blouse tucked neatly under the waistband, the lowered necklines; the fuller skirts.

There is the feminine look of bowed necklines, ruffles and, hallelujah, the shirtwaist dress again. Not that it was ever out of the typical American woman's wardrobe, but it is nice to have it back in favor with the haute couture, too.

Sleeves are also back and very important. They are tiered with ruffles or embroidered with scallops. They are of contrasting colors as fabrics as blouses under jumpers or sleeveless jackets or sewn into dresses. And they are bat-winged for the women who can wear them.

Milliners, shoe designers and hair stylists have joined the Think-Thirties brigade with non-teased hair, high-arched brows, dark-shadowed eyelids, whiter skin, rouged cheeks and red mouths beneath floppy wide brims or close-fitting hats, inspired by, not copying, the Lombard, Harlow and Joan Crawford era.

Pauline Trigere, fixed star of the fashion firmament, illustrates two basic concepts of high fashion: that really good fashions stay in style for years and years and years and years and that good designers have their innovations and interpretations of the general fashion "feel."

With her celebrated soft and sometimes slithery handling of fabrics, so that it clings or stands out more by her magic than by hidden helps.

Trigere turns the Tube, the Wedge, the Fin and the Dome into new fashion shapes. And ends her evening gowns 8 inches from the floor.

Strategic Seam

Her Dome jacket puffs into a perfect ovoid with slashes for the arm. The Wedge is expressed in capes from elbow to full length (Trigere has made a cover of some sort for every costume, even knits). Her One-Dart dress is an envelope with only one strategically placed seam for figure definition.

One of the newest stars on the fashion horizon is Geoffrey Beene whose firm is just six months old. He introduces some startling innovations in his three major silhouettes: the Kimona, the Hipster and the Blouson Batwing. For closings, for instance, he brazenly borrows the hooks and eyes from the back screen door. More basic innovation is his use of side zippers and shoulder zippers to preserve an unbroken line in back.

Tiffany and Busch's collection is young and full of bounce, and particularly good in the suits ranging from airy Linton tweeds to smooth woollens and supple wool jersey, all following a line of demi-fit, and all of domestic fabric, a rare departure.

Brass Buttons

Among the big fashion names in the Designer Series is Adele Simpson, artful as ever. One of her travel compositions features a long, narrow jacket in white edged with navy, buttoning with the season's popular brass buttons over a gold crepe sleeveless blouse and navy skirt.

She also illustrates an important evening trend: evening dresses either have long sleeves or are strapless with not much in between.

No fashion series could be complete without the collection of Christian Dior, New York. Among its successes are the Boulevardier—a sunflower and black striped double-breasted suit with a box pleated skirt and navy chiffon ascot; a white "tree bark" cotton and dotted lace pantaloons ensemble; and one of crushed violet linen in a slim cocktail dress and an ostrich-feather-edged stole for its bare back.

ENGLISH GARDEN — Entitled "Jardin D'Angleterre," this flowing gown of white and mint printed silk Lorgonza features a deep waterfall collar which softly frames the face and neck. It is a sleeveless, fullskirted cocktail dress, by Christian Dior of New York, also of the Eleanor Lambert Group. Accessories by Dior.

PALETTE PRINT — Navy and white in bold combination on silk crepe designed by Adele Simpson, sparks the 1964 Spring Collection by the Eleanor Lambert Group. All on-the-bias, it has an easy moving skirt and the slightly lowered neckline is draped to a soft cowl.

HIPSTER SHIRT SUIT—by Geoffrey Beene, is created in a true beige of grainy crepe. This is Beene's effort toward the softer look in women's suits, Eleanor Lambert Group.

NAVY TAILORING — Harry Frechtel creates a softly tailored costume in ever-elegant navy. Lined and shirtwaisted in white silk, with a minute dot, the suit fabric is a diagonal wool with a crisp feel and texture. The hat is by Miss Alice. Eleanor Lambert Group.

As I mentioned over the air Tuesday morning, I was doing my best to sound more pleasant than usual, because I was feeling so decidedly unpleasant. Do you ever have those days . . . days that seem to go wrong from the very moment you put your best foot forward onto the bedroom floor?

My biggest headache Tuesday, I think, was that everything in my house seems to be falling apart at the same time. Sheets and pillow cases are tearing. The mattress is beginning to sag. Sag is hardly the word! It is collapsing. The rugs are shoddy too . . . and now the electric toaster is being temperamental. There ought to be a law.

I realize that this general state of disrepair comes at least once in the lifetime of every homemaker, and leaves her bewildered and angry. The anger is at least partially directed at herself for not having seen disaster coming and safe-guarding against it. Perhaps a good stock-taking every six months would be the solution. After all, a store like Wyckoff's has White Sales in the Spring and Fall, giving everyone an opportunity to replenish household linens and such. I am lucky that another White Sale is in progress. As for the toaster . . . I'm not sure whether or not it can be repaired. If not, maybe we'll have to invest in a new one, in which case, I'd like to try the newer style, where the bread is laid flat upon a grill and is browned by radiant heat. Those who have them like them very much. I'm told, even though they still look a bit quaint to me.

It might do many of us a world of good to get rid of some of the old things we've been hanging on to over the years, and start all over again. Wouldn't you just love to do it? If my budget were keyed to the idea, I'd open the front and back doors tonight and start shoveling everything into the garbage cans. A whole new world of my own would be—for this moment, at least—my idea of heaven.

Tommy Rinehart, who was on the sick list, is back with us and as enthusiastic as ever about A. B. Wyckoff. "Did you know," he asks, "that the Wyckoff name was listed about six times on television during the Mummies Parade commercials?"

Isn't it strange what a thrill it is to see your own home town listed in magazine and TV ads? Suddenly you feel very proud of things you had been taking for granted. If all the plans now under discussion here at Wyckoff's reach successful maturity, you'll be hearing more and more about our store, that's for sure!

It was a pleasure to see Sterling Strauser and his brother shopping our store this past weekend, and hearing from Sterling the wonderful news that his eye operations were successful and he is painting again almost daily. He had not as yet brought a painting into the Wyckoff Art Show which opens the 25th, but we do hope he will do so before Monday's deadline. Somehow, a Wyckoff Art Show wouldn't be the same if this splendid local artist were not represented.

Word from Lee Eldredge of the Walpack Art Center informs us that her husband Allan, the distinguished marine artist, is recovering from several major operations, so I am not sure he will be participating in the show . . . but we hope so. At Wyckoff's we always welcome the new, first-time entrants . . . but, as in all things, old friends are very special, and we have a very warm regard for them.

Sag is hardly the word! It is collapsing. The rugs are shoddy too . . . and now the electric toaster is being temperamental. There ought to be a law.

I realize that this general state of disrepair comes at least once in the lifetime of every homemaker, and leaves her bewildered and angry. The anger is at least partially directed at herself for not having seen disaster coming and safe-guarding against it. Perhaps a good stock-taking every six months would be the solution. After all, a store like Wyckoff's has White Sales in the Spring and Fall, giving everyone an opportunity to replenish household linens and such. I am lucky that another White Sale is in progress. As for the toaster . . . I'm not sure whether or not it can be repaired. If not, maybe we'll have to invest in a new one, in which case, I'd like to try the newer style, where the bread is laid flat upon a grill and is browned by radiant heat. Those who have them like them very much. I'm told, even though they still look a bit quaint to me.

It might do many of us a world of good to get rid of some of the old things we've been hanging on to over the years, and start all over again. Wouldn't you just love to do it? If my budget were keyed to the idea, I'd open the front and back doors tonight and start shoveling everything into the garbage cans. A whole new world of my own would be—for this moment, at least—my idea of heaven.

Tommy Rinehart, who was on the sick list, is back with us and as enthusiastic as ever about A. B. Wyckoff. "Did you know," he asks, "that the Wyckoff name was listed about six times on television during the Mummies Parade commercials?"

Isn't it strange what a thrill it is to see your own home town listed in magazine and TV ads? Suddenly you feel very proud of things you had been taking for granted. If all the plans now under discussion here at Wyckoff's reach successful maturity, you'll be hearing more and more about our store, that's for sure!

It was a pleasure to see Sterling Strauser and his brother shopping our store this past weekend, and hearing from Sterling the wonderful news that his eye operations were successful and he is painting again almost daily. He had not as yet brought a painting into the Wyckoff Art Show which opens the 25th, but we do hope he will do so before Monday's deadline. Somehow, a Wyckoff Art Show wouldn't be the same if this splendid local artist were not represented.

Word from Lee Eldredge of the Walpack Art Center informs us that her husband Allan, the distinguished marine artist, is recovering from several major operations, so I am not sure he will be participating in the show . . . but we hope so. At Wyckoff's we always welcome the new, first-time entrants . . . but, as in all things, old friends are very special, and we have a very warm regard for them.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

As I mentioned over the air Tuesday morning, I was doing my best to sound more pleasant than usual, because I was feeling so decidedly unpleasant. Do you ever have those days . . . days that seem to go wrong from the very moment you put your best foot forward onto the bedroom floor?

My biggest headache Tuesday, I think, was that everything in my house seems to be falling apart at the same time. Sheets and pillow cases are tearing. The mattress is beginning to sag. Sag is hardly the word! It is collapsing. The rugs are shoddy too . . . and now the electric toaster is being temperamental. There ought to be a law.

I realize that this general state of disrepair comes at least once in the lifetime of every homemaker, and leaves her bewildered and angry. ## Dodgers Score Biggest Upset

By HUGH FULLERTON JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

When the underdog Los Angeles Dodgers stormed to victory in four straight games over the mighty New York Yankees in the 1963 World Series, it was both the upset of the Year and the Thrill of the Year to the nation's sports writers and broadcasters.

It became impossible to separate those two categories in the annual Associated Press year-end poll because the voting revolved about that one exciting series almost to the exclusion of everything else.

Dempsey Was 'Loaded' In Gloves, Says Willard

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Jess Willard claimed Wednesday that Jack Dempsey used loaded gloves in winning the world heavyweight title from him in 1919.

"He cut me all to pieces and hammered my eyes closed, that's why they gave the title to him," Willard, 82, said at his home in suburban La Crescenta.

Willard was commenting on a copyrighted feature in Sports Illustrated magazine, which published the memoirs of the late Jack (Doc) Kearns, Dempsey's manager, in its current issue.

The magazine said Dempsey denied Kearns' claim that he used plaster of paris in handgriping Dempsey's hands before the fight.

"Boxing men have become so accustomed to hearing their own whine as whipping boys that they forget they've been the bad boys. At the same time they have not only not lifted a finger to bring order to a madhouse but have frequently thrown roadblocks in the way of decent reform which could have saved the sport."

WBA Asks Federal Control

PATERSON, N. J. (AP)—The commissioner of the World Boxing Association called again Wednesday for federal control of boxing and a unified effort by all forces in the sport to help save it.

Otherwise, said Abe J. Greene, boxing "will move out of the public eye and into oblivion."

The Paterson editor and boxing official said that a broadcasting chain's decision to end its weekly television fights after its present contract runs out "is the climactic insult to a sport which has been sorely abused throughout the years and has done nothing to deserve better."

"If those who have some say in the sport do not speedily forget their cupidry, their petty jealousies and hypocritical ambitions, the television insult will become the coup de grace which will toll the 10-count for a once great sport."

"A new unity, in which selfish goals must be forgotten in the broad interests of preserving the sport, is the only salvation," he added.

Local Sports Figures At Fete

Cite Royal, Edwards Year's Top Coaches

By BOB GREEN, Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Likable young Darrell Royal of Texas and the man who almost hired him, Bill Edwards of Wittenberg, shared the honors Wednesday as the 1963 college football Coaches of the Year.

Royal, whose Texas Longhorns swept through an all-winning season and were named the national champion team, gained the major college coaching award while Edwards won the small college award for the second straight year.

The two were selected at the annual convention of the American Football Coaches Association. They will be presented with the awards at the annual banquet of the association Wednesday night.

Also attending the NCAA sessions in New York City are Marty Baldwin, Pocono's ambassador to the sports world; John Eiler, director of athletics at East Stroudsburg State College; Jack Gregory, head football coach at ESAC; and Charley Reese, grid assistant at ESAC.

Baldwin said, "Both Royal and Pete Elliott have been invited to head a staff at the Eastern Pennsylvania Coaches' Clinic at East Stroudsburg State College this June."

"Elliott, the Illinois football coach, finished second in the voting for coach of the year honors," the head of the clinic pointed out.

The selections of Royal and Edwards highlighted Wednesday's session of the National Collegiate Athletic Association convention, which also produced these developments:

1. The NCAA amended its constitution to broaden its purpose and scope, an amendment which Executive Director Walter Byers candidly admitted was aimed at the Amateur Athletic Union.

The amendment changed the purpose of the NCAA from "stimulation and improvement of intramural and intercollegiate athletic sports" to: "The stimulation and improvement of programs to promote and develop educational leadership, physical fitness, sports participation as a recreational pursuit and athletic excellence through competitive intramural and intercollegiate programs."

2. The general convention rejected a proposal to drop its ban against summer basketball programs, but approved an amendment which would exempt the Superior League of Puerto Rico from the restriction.

3. The convention also approved measures calling for regional football championships on the small college level, a small college national swimming championship, and set up the machinery for a national collegiate indoor track and field championships.

"You know," the veteran Edwards recalled after the announcement of the Coach of the Year awards, "I almost hired Darrell once. Now, wouldn't that have been something?"

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—Professional golfer Dow Finsterwald gave the pre-amateur prize of the $30,000 San Diego Open an extra punch Wednesday when he scored a hole in one, the seventh of his career.

By WILLIAM J. CONWAY

CHICAGO (AP)—President Joe Cronin of the American League and owner Charles O. Finley of the Kansas City Athletics traded telegraphed punches Wednesday.

Finley didn't back away from his plan to move the A's to Louisville.

Cronin started the exchange with a telegram directing Finley to refrain from making any further arrangements for transferring the club.

Hot Message

Finley replied with a hotly worded message, criticizing the release of Cronin's telegram as "unfair and unethical" and suggesting Cronin refrain from further public statements until he could receive "the true and complete facts . . . for the first time."

The Associated Press asked Finley if his response meant he was standing firm.

"I always have, and I always will," he replied.

Finley has signed a two-year contract to shift the A's franchise to Louisville.

Follows Battle

His decision followed a battle with the Kansas City Council over terms for a new lease on renting the Municipal Stadium in Kansas City.

Finley stated he was confident owners of the other clubs in the league would approve his move.

Cronin, from league headquarters in Boston, dispatched a telegram to Finley Wednesday.

"In noting published reports and in view of the purposes of the American League meetings scheduled to be held in New York on Jan. 16," Cronin's message said, "I consider your current activities unfair to the loyal baseball fans in Kansas City and feel they could result in disillusionment for the baseball public in Louisville, Ky."

"Await Determination"

"I, therefore, as president of the American League, direct you to refrain from any further arrangements and await the determination of the American League concerning this matter."

Finley, a Chicago-based insurance man, fired a fast rejoinder from his office.

"My dear Mr. Cronin," it read, "I consider your releasing to the press the telegram which you sent me this morning very unfair and unethical."

"As an owner in the American League, I will expect any future communication from you to be kept private and not released."

Sugarbrook Dogs

Win Top Awards

MOUNTAINHOME — Two dogs owned by Marguerite Manhart of Sugarbrook Kennels, Mountainhome, placed first in the 6-9 class of the Futurity Stakes at the recent National Spaniel Club show in the Hotel Roosevelt, New York City.

Winning first places were "Sugarbrook Orbiter" and "Sugarbrook Miss Dolly."

A third spaniel, "Sugarbrook Stardust," won an award for highest obedience in scoring.

leased for publication without my personal approval.

Strong Suggestion

"In the meantime, I suggest that you, as president of the American League, refrain from any further public statements until you, for the first time, have had an opportunity to be presented with the true and complete facts."

The American League said it will have no comment on Finley's wire.

Finley has not received permission from other club owners to switch the franchise of the A's from Kansas City to Louisville. Such a move would need the approval of seven owners in addition to Finley.

Thus, it would appear, the owners will render the final verdict in the dispute.

Santa Anita To Lose Card?

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Leaders of striking Santa Anita Park employees asked the state Wednesday to give Santa Anita's racing dates to another track.

That way, a union spokesman said, the state wouldn't keep losing $200,000 a day in racing revenue.

But a Santa Anita official said the idea won't work. He said union proposals rejected by Santa Anita also would be turned down by California tracks.

Finley said it made the Santa Anita officials have stated they may go out of business and convert the property to shopping and apartment house use."

"Reallocate Dates"

Leo Geffner, an attorney for pari-mutuel clerks and others affiliated with the striking Building Service Union, said union officials sent a wire asking acting Gov. Glenn M. Anderson "to instruct the California Horse Racing Board to reallocate the Santa Anita racing dates to any track."

But Fred H. Ryan, Santa Anita's general manager, said none of the other tracks "would want to accept terms and conditions set up by the union."

Santa Anita President Robert P. Strub said Tuesday that the track is thinking of going out of the racing business and using its valuable 100-acre site for commercial developments. He said the track doesn't want to give up racing but could make more money by putting its land to other uses.

Unresolved Issues

Negotiations broke down Monday. Issues still unresolved included the union proposal that the track provide health and welfare coverage for retired employees. Wages were not a main issue.

"The track said Tuesday it felt the next move was up to the union. 'Nobody is standing on ceremony,' Geffner said. 'The union is ready to meet on five minutes' notice. No one is happy about the strike.'"

Learn New Golf Rules For 1963

By Frank Elk
AP Newfeatures

NINE HOLE QUIZ

If you are among the fortunate ones able to play golf at this time of year, it might be well to brush up on the numerous changes made in the rules of the game. And if you can't play why not become acquainted with the changes for the future.

The new 1963 golf code was formulated by the United States Golf Association after negotiations with the Royal and Ancient Golf Club of St. Andrews, Scotland.

A number of USGA changes concern the putting green, including prohibition of using the flagstick for a backstop and clarification of procedure when a ball overhangs the hole.

There is also a sanction in the general rules of golf for 1963. This stems from an agreement by the Professional Golfers' Association of America to play USGA rules without deviation. In the past, the rules of the USGA, governing body of amateur golf in the United States, were somewhat tougher than those used by the PGA.

Uniformity in the rules between the USGA and PGA has been hailed by John M. Winter, Jr., of Tulsa, Okla., president of the USGA, as a boon to the game.

Joseph C. Dey Jr., executive director of the USGA, has devised a "Nine Hole Quiz" to help inform this newspaper's readers of the changes in the rules.

During the next five days we will carry the Quiz and drawings to illustrate the more important rules changes.

If you are in a position to take golf lessons this time of year that's just dandy. Lucky you. But if there's ice and snow at your club—or the municipal course—this is a good time to learn something about the new rules of golf.

Joseph C. Dey Jr., executive director of the United States Golf Association, knows the rules and the numerous changes in the rules inside out. He has come up with what he calls a "Nine Hole Quiz."

His "pat" is 36, with the scoring based on four points "or strokes" for each correct answer. A wrong or partially correct answer means five points.

Below are the first two of nine questions to be asked—and answered:

1—Lifting, Dropping and Placing—Rule 23-c.

A ball is dropped away from interference by a sprinkler head (obstruction) in a fairway. It rolls about 18 feet into the rough. What is the player's next move?

a—Play the ball as it lies.
b—Drop the ball again.
c—Either of the above; the player may choose which he wants to do.

ANSWER to 1—b.
2—Provisional Ball—Rule 30.

On a particular hole, if the drive is hooked it is almost impossible to know the ball's situation until search is made; out-of-bounds stakes are bordered by a lateral water hazard, and all obscured by thick underbrush. After hooking, Bill immediately announced and played a provisional ball. The provisional becomes the ball in play if the first ball is:

a—Lost (not in a water hazard).
b—Out of bounds.
c—Unplayable.
d—In a water hazard.

ANSWER to 2—a or b.

Hicks Elected Vice President

Cascioli Bangor Council President

BANGOR—Bangor Borough Council reorganized this week and named John Cascioli, Fourth Ward councilman, president. Samuel Hicks, also a Fourth Ward council member, was elected vice president.

Cascioli was elected along party lines as nine Republicans offered him voting support while Democrats favored the election of Rex Erdman, First Ward councilman by registering the three party votes in his favor. Following Cascioli's election council members moved that the election favor him by a unanimous vote. Bangor borough council now has party control in the Republican side by 9 to 3.

Hicks was not opposed for the post of vice president. Others elected without opposition were: William J. Sleeman who was re-named borough secretary for his 61st year, believed to be the oldest and longest term ever served in any borough in Pennsylvania; Raymond A. Traves was named assistant secretary; Sherwood Evans was named as borough treasurer and Attorney J. Lawrence Davis was reelected to the position of borough solicitor. David O. Pritchard was also reelected to the position of borough engineer.

Special police named were Frederick Jones, Chris Schlemmer and Sherwood Holland. Three applications for the position of street supervisor were received. They were Joseph Miller, a Democrat, and current office holder; Louis Campanaro, presently employed on the street department and a Republican, and Walter W. Pritchard, a former street supervisor, a Republican, who is currently employed in the sanitation department.

Action on the election of the street supervisor was deferred to an adjourned meeting of council to be held on Monday, Jan. 13 at 7:30 p. m.

Mayor Quintus LaBar served as the temporary chairman of the meeting for the election of the president of council.

He also administered the oath of office to the following elected councilmen: Elwood Parsons, local office of the MECO, appeared before council and requested permission to connect drains to the borough surface water drainage system. The company is currently constructing a new building on South First Street. Council merely requested that the company follow the instructions of the borough engineer in making the connections.

Council granted the use of the borough dump to Washington Township at request of the supervisors at a fee of $250 per year. Council requested that the township meet the regulations of the dump and the caretaker. A list of the regulations will be supplied by council and the borough solicitor.

The following committees were named by Cascioli for the year: Street, Merlin Tucker, chairman; Elwood Parsons, Try Boigel and Samuel Hicks; safety, Miles and Rex Erdman; building grounds and sanitation,

Bangor Board To Press School Bus Signal Law

BANGOR — The Bangor School Board directed bus drivers of the district to take the license numbers of all motorists who fail to honor the bus stop signals. The board said this has developed into a dangerous hazard to local children and an effort to have the safety measure enforced is uppermost in the minds of directors.

The action was taken at a meeting this week. Merle Mabius, secretary was instructed to write the Easton office of the Ladies International Garment Workers Union instructing them to pay earned income tax on vacation pays to workers.

It was reported that the pay, derived from the union's health and welfare fund, has not been recorded and is taxable under state laws. The amount of revenue lost by the district by the unions failure to pay the tax is being studied and Solicitor Edmund Turtzo has advised the district to seek immediate payments.

Future meetings will start at 8 p.m. Dr. Nicholas Casario, vice president had charge of the meeting in the absence of David Stoddard. Marvin DePamphilis also missed the meeting. Bills totaling $37,662.55 were approved for payment. Bank balances were reported as $151,142.87.

'64 Jet-smooth Luxury Chevrolet

What does it take to make a car a great highway performer?

If the car happens to be a '64 Chevrolet, one thing only. A highway. You'll find everything else already neatly packaged for you—on the car exactly as you pick it off the showroom floor.

There's a choice of seven engines—all the way up to a twin-carb high-compression 425-hp V8*—and four transmissions, including a finely honed 4-speed stick shift.*

And underlying it all—a bump-skimming Jet-smooth ride that helps keep the performance great even when the highways aren't so great.

What about special performance equipment? Professional driving skills? Forget them.

Nobody has to doctor or coax or soup up these Chevrolets to get the best out of them. They were built to be driven by you—on the kinds of roads you drive on.

And that's really the test of a great highway performer: Just about anyone can get a kick out of driving one, just about anywhere, just as it comes out of the showroom.

Which, after all, is the kind of performance you'd expect from Chevrolet. The greater satisfaction and enjoyment built into these cars is borne out, year after year, by the higher resale they bring over other makes in their field.

Next time you're out your dealer's way, allow a few extra minutes to sample one of these highway performers on your own. A few are really all you'll need. That's enough time to do a lot of driving in a Chevrolet. *Optional at extra cost

Threw Log On Fire, Alarm Trips

CRESCO — Barrett Twp. firemen were called Wednesday night at 9:20 to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Al Laughton in Cresco after a fire alarm in their home sounded.

Laughton told firemen that he had a fire burning in the fireplace and he added another log to the fire before he and his wife left the house.

Firemen said the embers in the fireplace ignited the log but the damper in the chimney was closed. Heat built up in the home and tripped the private fire alarm.

The alarm is connected to a bell outside the home and when neighbors heard it they summoned firemen.

Firemen said the only fire in the house was in the fireplace and that damage was restricted to smoke.

One Hurt In Two-Car Accident

STROUDSBURG — One person was slightly injured Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. in a two-car accident on L. R. 45014, a road connecting Rts. 209 and 402, State Police at the Stroudsburg substation reported.

Injured was Katie Howey of East Stroudsburg. She was treated by Dr. Frederick Jones, East Stroudsburg, for a laceration on her forehead and a cut finger. She was released after treatment.

Drivers were Jean E. Miller, 27, of East Stroudsburg RD 1 and Cleve Howey, 80, of East Stroudsburg RD 1.

Police said the Miller car was traveling south and approaching a curve in the highway. She slowed down, applied her brakes and skidded on the icy highway into the Howey car.

Firemen Fight Huge Blaze

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Fire engulfed a five-story building used for paper box storage near the waterfront in center city this week, sending hundreds from nearby buildings and hampering traffic on the Benjamin Franklin Bridge over the Delaware River. There were no reported injuries.

It took more than 200 firemen with 40 pieces of equipment to bring the blaze under control after 90 minutes. Police said the structure was used for storage by G. A. Bisler, Inc., makers of candy boxes. They added that the building is owned by Robert J. Fay.

Fire Chief George E. Hink said he did not think the fire was accidental. It was directly in front of a building where a fire broke out last Thursday.

Hink said there have been several other suspicious fires in the same area in recent weeks. All are under investigation by the fire marshal's office.

FBI Recovers Valuable Papers

DETROIT (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation on Monday identified documents found in a couple's apartment as historical material taken from the National Archives in Washington, D.C. in 1962. The documents were reportedly valued at more than $500,000.

The FBI charged Robert Bradford Murphy, 45, and his wife Elizabeth, 32, with interstate transportation of stolen property and theft of government property.

Shipbuilders Get Contract

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A new contract for some 2,500 employees of the Sun Shipbuilding & Drydock Co. in nearby Chester was pounced out this week between company and union officials, thus averting a possible strike.

Terms of the contract were approved unanimously at a meeting of some 1,500 members of Local 802 of the Boilermakers Union.

The contract calls for an immediate 7-cent-an-hour raise, and 6 cents each of the succeeding two years of the three-year contract. Also included are fringe benefits — hospitalization and an additional holiday — totaling 13 cents. The present pay range is from $3 to $3.75 an hour.

WASHINGTON (AP) — George Romney — willing to accept a draft but still officially a non-candidate — predicted yesterday that President Johnson will be easier to beat than the late President John F. Kennedy would have been.

Romney Willing To Take Draft

The Republican governor of Michigan also took issue with any thesis that Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona offers the only real choice between Republicanism on the one hand and the Democratic administration on the other. Romney added that he believes there is "as degree of choice" in the case of all those mentioned for the Republican nomination. As for whether Johnson would

Eastburg Council Discusses Ways To Serve Residents

EAST STROUDSBURG — East Stroudsburg councilmen Wednesday night discussed ways to "better serve" the people of the borough for the next four years.

Robert Staples told council of a complaint he has received about traffic conditions on Washington St. at the East Stroudsburg National Bank "Drive-in Window."

Council voted to turn the matter over to the street committee for study and instructed the committee to make a report at the next meeting.

Kenneth Wiley suggested a study be made of alternate parking on several streets. He said this would allow snow crews and the street cleaners to do their jobs more efficiently. He also suggested that Anabank St. be designated for two-hour parking. No action was taken.

Jack Lantz suggested that the council work in closer liaison with East Stroudsburg State College. He referred to problems of water needs of the college, now and in the future.

Council moved to have the water committee meet with officials of the college and make a report in the near future.

Jay Peters suggested the purchase of the "Old Sharon property" near the reservoir. The matter was referred to the water committee.

Borough Engineer Edward Bess told the meeting of a proposed $300,000 storm sewer for the college. He said the General State Authority made the plans. He did not know when construction would start or if it would start.

Council named Jack Lantz to the Sanitary Landfill Board and appointed Calvin J. Lockard a member of the school patrol.

Palmer Faces Two New Charges

STROUDSBURG — The legal problems of William Palmer, 41, of Stroudsburg RD 2, continued to mount Wednesday when he was charged with assault and battery and surety of the peace on information signed by his wife, Evelyn.

Palmer, who had been in the county jail since Jan. 4 on charges brought by Leona Everett of Stroudsburg RD 2, was arraigned by Hamilton Township Justice of the Peace Homer E. Osborne Jr. and returned to jail in default of $1,000 bail.

Palmer was also given a hearing yesterday on the original charges of disorderly conduct and surety of the peace brought by Mrs. Everett.

He pleaded guilty to the disorderly charges and was committed to jail for 30 days when he could not pay the $20 fine and costs imposed by Osborne. Osborne found sufficient evidence to place Palmer under $500 bail on Mrs. Everett's surety charge.

To be released from jail Palmer would have to serve 30 days in jail and post $1,000 bail.

Palmer was also charged with assault and battery on a person and surety of the peace on information signed by his wife, Evelyn.

Teenagers
Aid Charity
Tomorrow

STROUDSBURG —The teenagers of Stroudsburg High School have volunteered to help put the January March of Dimes campaign over the top by holding a candy sale tomorrow night, from 6 to 9 p.m., on Main St., Stroudsburg, and at the Acme and Giant Markets on Route 611, weather permitting.

The teenagers are all members of the Monroe County Teen Age Program (TAP). All donors will be presented with a gift of candy. This will be a symbol of their participation in a program which is making better medical care available for victims of birth defects and arthritis and supporting research aimed at eliminating these two great cripples.

Under the direction of Susan Snyder and Roy Wallace, Teen-Age Chairmen of the Monroe County TAP, this will be the second project for Monroe Teenagers in boosting the Dimes' collection.

Miss Snyder pointed out, "Your loose change can help buy a better future for a handicapped child. See you on Friday night!"

Hazards
Of Smoking
Contest

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Medical Society announced yesterday that it will sponsor a poster contest on the "Health Hazards of Smoking" for all junior high school students in the county's public and parochial schools.

The project will be assisted in the school by the regional Heart, Cancer and Tuberculosis and Health Societies. Film strips and literature will be used in the health classes in each school to provide information for students whether or not they wish to participate in the project.

The actual drawing of the poster will be a project of the art teacher in each school.

The subject of smoking was picked by the doctors because of their concern with the health of the young people in Monroe County, according to Dr. Claus Jordan, chairman of the poster committee.

Each interested student will be given a set of rules for the Poster Contest.

The judges, who will be announced later, will be picked from people outside the schools and health organizations.

It also was intended as a public notice to the rival camp of Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona that New York Republicans were backing Rockefeller.

Green Thumb

Ways For Amaryllis Bulbs To Bloom Indoors

AMARYLLIS NOTES — Several readers have written to tell us of their experiences in getting their amaryllis bulbs to bloom indoors. One writes: "Late last summer I planted a tiny bulb resembling a little green onion. I fed and watered it. A thick stalk appeared in the center and the plant grew like magic. Soon I had found large lily-like blooms."

After the flower stalk died, I cut them off close to the bulb and left the plant in a sunny, west-window where it was fed and watered until the last day of September. Then I scraped soil from the bulb down to the shoulder, and set the plant in a cool, dark place in the cellar. The leaves all died while in the cellar, but shortly after a new leaf appeared 20 inches long, and a flower stalk, 25" long with four blooms. After the flowers are gone I will cut the stalks off and enjoy the plant's strap-like leaves. During the summer I place it in a sunny window indoors, rather than outdoors. Thought these tips might help some of your readers who cannot get their amaryllis to bloom."

APPLE TREES — I'm often asked if it's more sensible to grow dwarf apple trees or should the home gardener stick to the regular ("standard") types. If you're cramped for space, I'd resort to the dwarfs and you can get them with single varieties or with 5 different kinds all budded on one tree.

The trees never grow much higher than you can reach which means you don't need long ladders, high pressure sprayers or long pruning poles to care for them.

While on the subject of apples, I'd like to point out the fine work the National Apple Institute has done for home owners and gardeners alike in proving the value of apples to health.

This organization has permitted me to offer free to each reader of this paper, a copy of "Johnny Appleseed Coloring Book" for children.

This 8½ inch by 11 inch book is excellent for school teachers and all mothers who have or work with small children. For your free copy simply send me a 6-cent stamp, plus a slip of paper with your name and address which will be used for mailing. Be sure your address is complete, and only one copy per reader please.

KILLING BIRDS — Recently we mentioned using bacon fat for birds. A reader said she adds bird seed to bacon fat and places the food in a tree. Another irate reader writes, "There's nothing more deadly to birds than bacon fat, because of the salt content. When birds eat seed in bacon fat you're poisoning them fast or slow — depending on how hungry they are!"

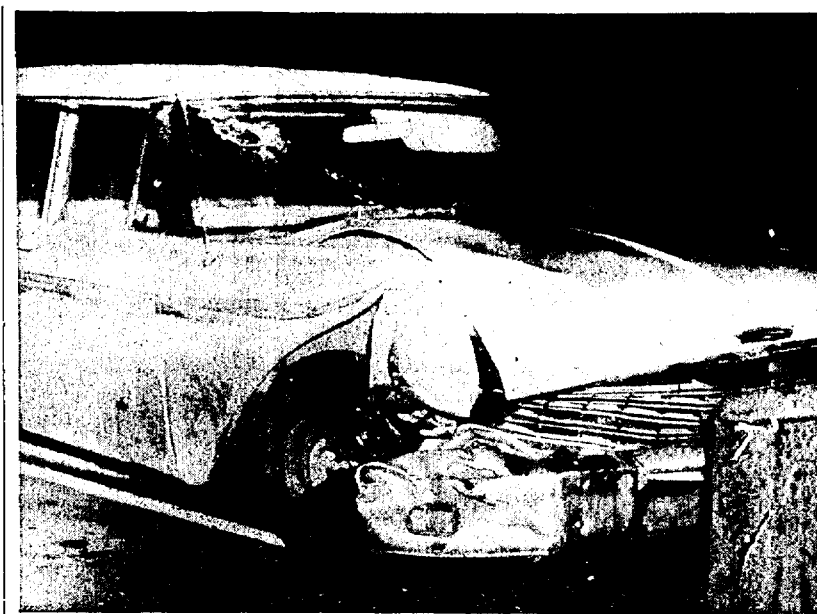

Being avid birdlovers, we wondered how many birds we have actually poisoned over the years by using bird seed in bacon fat. We took the matter up with Dr. A. A. Allen, noted bird authority at Cornell University and he assured us there's no harm in using bacon fat for the birds. In fact, he uses bacon fat mixed with cornmeal and he tells me they're very fond of it.

HUMIDITY IN HOMES — From time to time we've mentioned that air in the average home in winter is drier than that of the Sahara desert. This is quite dry for most house plants, but usually it isn't as bad as it sounds. Your house gets more moisture than really meets the eye — and nose.

For example, some whimsical researcher found that whenever you mop and rinse an 8-foot by 10-foot kitchen floor you release about 2½ lbs. of water (or 2½ pints) vapor into the air. Whenever your wife cooks dinner for you and two children she adds another 2½ pints of water, and when you help her wash dishes afterward, the chore adds at least another half pint.

A family of four puts another 12 pints of water a day into the air simply by breathing and sweating. And how about your house plants? They are constantly giving off moisture. The leaves of an average sized cincraria or gloxinia will give off two or three times as much water as would evaporate from the surface of water in a pan the same size of the flower pot. Yet, in spite of all this, some plants do suffer from browned leaves due to dry air. Take the palm, for example. It's worst enemy is dry air, but if you keep the soil uniformly moistened, it will live and grow and be nice and green, in spite of the dry air.

THREE PERSONS INJURED—Three persons were injured in the car Wednesday at 6:55 p.m. in front of Penn Hills Lodge on Rt. 191 in Anasomink. Injured were Judith Ziegler, 18; Eleanor Ziegler, 51, and Alvin Ziegler, 56, all of Henryville. They were treated and released at the General Hospital of Monroe County. (Staff Photo by MacLeod.)

Question Box

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: R. F. of Weissport — "We received a 'Kalenko' plant for Christmas. It has dozens of bright red flowers and we'd like to keep them as long as possible. What care does this plant need?"

You have a Kalanchoe (pronounced Kal-an-koh-ee), introduced by a German hybridizer years ago. K. blossfeldiana (has no common name other than Kalanchoe) has flowers predominantly red, sometimes orange, and they bloom when days are short, usually around Christmas. A greenhouse man can manipulate the day length and keep it into flowering any time of the year. K. pinnata is the so-called "air-plant" or "magic-leaf" simply because baby plants form along its scalloped leaf edge if you pin it to a window curtain, or lay it on moist soil.

Plants do best in a bright window, with a temperature of 60 to 70 degrees or so. Give the plant good drainage and ample moisture. A lack of flowers can be due to poor light or high temperatures. Drooping of foliage is due to poor light or old age. This is an ideal foliage plant even if you cannot get it to flower. The leaves are green, glossy and leathery.

Wash the plant under a faucet from time to time to remove dust. Start new plants from leaf cuttings stuck in moist sand or water. Also seed started now in light soil and in a room of 70 degrees will give you ideal plants by fall. Never water the small plants from the top as they may rot.

D. R. OF STOCKERTOWN — "My older boys want to build a tree house next spring. Does it damage a tree to drive nails into it. We thought the slats used to make the rungs for a ladder might in some way harm the tree."

It won't do a bit of harm to drive nails into the trunk or to nail slats on to it.

The only time it might do some harm is when the tree is cut down and someone might run into the nails with a power saw.

I'd like to say that vines — woodbine, ivy, poison ivy, honeysuckle, wild grape or wisteria — can have a choking effect on a tree or tree branch. If you see them climbing a tree, better cut the vine down before they strangle the tree.

B. H. OF ROSSLAND — "I have a crown of thorns which is quite large (4 years old) but it never blooms. What care does it need?"

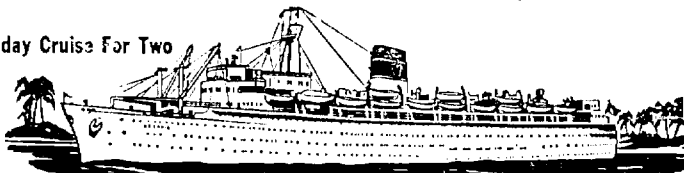

This item looks like a cactus, but is far from being one. Since it has thorns like a cactus, many treat it as a desert plant. Actually, it will not produce leaves nor flowers without a uniform supply of moisture and the brightest window possible.

Soil should be well drained. Best room temperature is 70 degrees in day and around 60 at night. This is a close member of the Christmas Poinsettia, and roughly takes same care.
